

Your Rights

We want to work together with you so that you receive the best healthcare possible.

When you're in our care, you have the following rights:

- ▶ to be treated fairly, with dignity and respect
- ▶ to make your own decisions about your care and treatment
- ▶ to be able to change your mind about aspects of your care
- ▶ to be asked for your consent (verbal or written) before we carry out any treatment or procedure. (We may take into account the views of your family or whanau if you are not able to communicate with us)
- ▶ to have your cultural needs respected
- ▶ to be made aware of the choices you have for your treatment, including the benefits and risks involved. (In medical emergencies this may not always be possible)
- ▶ to be communicated with in a way that you understand. To be offered an interpreter, if necessary
- ▶ to have all treatments, tests or procedures clearly explained to you
- ▶ to have your personal information kept confidential
- ▶ to have a family member or support person accompany you. (For safety reasons this may not always be possible).

These rights also apply if you are asked to take part in a research study or teaching session for training staff.

These rights are based on the Code of Health and Disability Consumer's Rights. A full copy of these rights is available on the Health and Disability Commissioner's website: www.hdc.org.nz.

Your privacy

To care for you in the best way possible our doctors, nurses and other health professionals directly associated with your care need to view your health information. Other Auckland DHB staff may need to view your information for administration, quality improvement activities, teaching and in some cases for medical research.

We will always:

- ▶ keep your personal information confidential
- ▶ let you view your records
- ▶ acknowledge your request for corrections to your records
- ▶ acknowledge your request not to release your information.

Your health information may be disclosed to another health provider involved in your treatment or where authorised by law. For further information about the privacy of your information, call and speak to the Auckland DHB Privacy Officer on: (09) 367 0000.

We value your feedback

If you have a concern or complaint about the service or care that you or a family member received at Auckland DHB, please let us know straight away. You can either speak to those providing your care, or the charge nurse or midwife on the ward or clinic where you are treated. If you feel uncomfortable talking to these people, or you aren't satisfied with their response, please contact our Consumer Liaison Team:
